Standoff Continues In Terrorist Grab Of Dutch Train

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands (AP) — The Dutch government showed no signs today of yielding to demands of South Moluccan nationalists holding more than 60 hostages in the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam and aboard a stranded train in northern Holland.

More than 150 police surrounded the consulate in which six terrorists held an estimated 30 captives, including 11 children. Sharpshooters were perched on buildings around the consulate as the siege entered its second day.

At Beilen, 90 miles to the north, 600 troops and 45 armored cars reinforced police and troops surrounding a four-coach local train in which five terrorists held 38 hostages. The gunmen have killed three hostages since hijacking the train Tuesday.

There was no possibility the Dutch government would endanger its good political and commercial relations with Indonesia by agreeing to the political demands of the terrorists, and the Indonesian government is certain to continue to reject all demands for South Moluccan independence as it has all other secessionist attempts in its far-flung archipelago.

The terrorists are exiles or sons of exiles from the South Molucca islands in the Indonesian archipelago. The South Moluccas were part of the prewar Dutch East Indies and became part of Indonesia when the Dutch gave their vast island colony independence in 1949. Thousands of the islanders fled to Holland when the Jakarta government took over after an unsuccessful rebellion in 1950, and there are now about 40,000 South Moluccans in the country.

The train hijackers issued a new set of demands Thursday, which in addition to safe passage out of the country included admission by the Dutch government that "great injustice" had been done to the South Moluccan people and a Dutch initiative for United Nations mediation of South Moluccan demands for independence.

Premier Joop den Uyl and senior cabinet members met through the night to discuss the twin acts of terror. Den Uyl said earlier prospects for a quick solution were "very somber." The government proclaimed a full alert of all royal marine and state police units in the country.

The consulate building in Amsterdam also housed an Indonesian school, and 16 children were there when the terrorists stormed into the building at noon Thursday. Shortly afterwards they released five children in return for a portable television set, a transistor radio and a bull horn.

Later they said they would release another three children if a trusted mediator was brought to the consulate. The police countered with a demand that all the youngsters be freed, and the gunman did not reply.

Officials said a number of mediation attempts by prominent South Moluccan officials had failed to persuade the train hijackers to surrender. Their victims included the engineer and a passenger who were slain shortly after the takeover, and a third man shot Thursday after the government refused to give the terrorists plane passage out of the country.

national liberation movements."

He said the United States "is not prepared to acquiesce in an action which will undermine the negotiating process" between Israel and its Arab foes.

PLO representatives, Moynihan continued, "as recently as the day before yesterday told the General Assembly of their disdain for systematic negotiation. They have openly declared their hostility, indeed their contempt, for the work of this council."

The council's action had been expected, and the Israelis said in advance that they would stay away.

"If the PLO is at the table, we aren't," said one Israeli official.

Immediately after the vote, the chief PLO observer at the United Nations, Basel Amin Aql, appeared before the council for the first time. He said that Israel had failed to eliminate the Palestinians politically and now was trying to liquidate them physically with U.S. warplanes, rockets and bombs.

Aql, 36, said whole villages had been razed in the Israeli raids Tuesday which the Lebanese police said killed about 100 persons in and around Palestinian refugee camps and guerrilla bases in northern and southern Lebanon.

Aql said Moynihan's speech was "reminiscent of the cold war language, and he must be an old cold warrior. May I remind him that he is fighting the wrong war behind the wrong lines. He is fighting the homeless Palestinian victims of his Israeli allies who are fighting us with sophisticated American planes, missiles and rockets."

In Washington, Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz said the targets of the Israeli attacks Tuesday were five terrorist bases, and "the civilians were lured there to act as shields."

Senate Takes Up Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is likely to keep up the heat of his veto threat when the Senate next week begins scrutiny of the House-passed bill carrying $13 billion in personal tax cuts for 1976.

Ford's 2-month-old demand that any tax cut be tied to a lid on government spending was repeated Thursday when the President, in Peking, phoned House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes shortly before the final House vote on the tax bill.

Rhodes later told reporters that Ford repeated his vow that "he positively would veto this bill if it did not have a ceiling" on federal spending linked to it.

After getting this word from Rhodes, the House narrowly rejected such a link-up in the form of Ford's proposed $395-billion lid on federal spending for fiscal 1977, the year starting next Oct. 1.

The vote of 220 to 202 against a spending lid found 218 Democrats and two Republicans overpowering 139 Republicans and 63 Democrats.

The tax cut then was approved 257 to 168, with 225 Democrats and 32 Republicans for the bill, 111 Republicans and 57 Democrats opposed.

In the Senate, there are signs the bill might be split apart for fast consideration of the tax-cut features, leaving until next year the more controversial and time-consuming tax revisions approved by the House.

"Soon" was Senate Finance Chairman Russell B. Long's reply when asked when he expects a tax bill to get to the Senate floor. Senate sources say that means something like the week of Dec. 15, or right before Congress adjourns for the year.

Police Chief Enters Plea

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — An Ohio police chief pleaded innocent Thursday to a federal court indictment charging him with violating the civil rights of an Indiana man he shot and killed last March.

Union City, Ohio Chief Devaun Rinard was ordered to stand trial in U.S. District Court here on Jan. 21.

A federal grand jury indicted Rinard in connection with the fatal shooting of Gilberto Ramos of Union City, Ind., after a high speed chase that crossed the Ohio-Indiana line and ended when Ramos wrecked his car in a ditch.

Rinard contended he shot Ramos after he saw what he said was a shiny object in Ramos' hand. No weapon was ever found on the dead man, authorities said.

Jobless Data Released By Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a one-month increase, the nation's unemployment rate dropped from 8.6 to 8.3 per cent of the labor force in November, the government reported today.

The drop in the jobless rate equaled the October increase and thus left the unemployment rate at the same level as in September. The government said 7.7 million persons were unemployed in November.

Before the October rise, joblessness had declined over the previous four months from its recession peak of 9.2 per cent last May. However, administration economists attributed the increase to "special factors" and had hoped the downward trend would be resumed in November.

Despite the improvement in November, joblessness is forecast to remain above 7 per cent through 1976.

The unemployment report provided the Ford administration with a second dose of favorable economic news in as many days. The Labor Department reported Thursday that wholesale prices leveled off last month for the first time since June, easing fears of a new bout with inflation.

In today's report, the Labor Department said the number of Americans without jobs dropped by 300,000 in November to 7.7 million following a nearly equal increase the previous month. Total employment showed little change for the third straight month and stood at 85.3 million.

Winning Ohio Lottery Numbers

First numbers were drawn Thursday night in the Super Santa game. The winning numbers: (six-digit) 946340; (five-digit) 40105; (four-digit) 5612; (two-digit) 61, 76, 11, 63. The regular weekly numbers in the Buckeye 1,000 game were: Six-digit number: 293160. Five-digit: 88145. Four-digit: 7394. Three-digit: 732.

The lawmakers face time pressures imposed by the Dec. 31 expiration of the existing tax cuts.

The House-passed version contains a sweeping series of proposals that House Ways and Means Chairman Al Ullman, D-Ore., said would collect $3 billion presently "guarded by tax loopholes and preferences."

Before approving the final bill, the House voted 379 to 27 to purge a feature which would have provided $165 million next year in special tax refunds for some high-income investors, including a reported $15 million for Texas businessman H. Ross Perot.

Here's how the bill would affect a typical couple with two children and $15,000 of basic annual income. That couple paid $1,699 in taxes under the 1974 law. They'll pay $1,579 under the temporary tax cuts for this year, and they would pay $1,510 under the House-passed bill.

However, if existing law vanishes on schedule at midnight Dec. 31, they'll be back under 1974's law and be paying $1,699 again.

There's some talk in the Senate of seeking a way to buy time for congressional-presidential compromise next year through a simple extension of existing law for, perhaps, three months or maybe even six months.

The question then becomes whether Ford would veto such a three-month tax cut extension.

"I did not ask that specific question," Rhodes told reporters who asked about his longdistance conversation with the President in China, "but in my opinion he would."

President Stops In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Ford arrived today for a 19-hour overnight stay in Indonesia, which the U.S. government regards as the central element in Southeast Asian stability following the Communist conquest of Indochina.

President Suharto and his wife greeted the American president and his wife and daughter as they stepped from Air Force One into a light drizzle and temperature in the 80s. It had been clear and near freezing when the Fords left Peking nearly eight hours before.

The Indonesian airport welcome included a 21-gun salute, a canopied platform to keep the rain off, 400 honor guards and 400 journalists. But the airport was closed to the public, and there was a heavy guard of police and guards with automatic weapons.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters accompanying the President the visit would be a "review of our relationship and the future of Southeast Asia, in which Indonesia is a key country."

Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik described the President's stay as a "working" visit and not just a courtesy call. But American spokesmen said no major issues required top-level attention. The two presidents met last in July, at Camp David, Md., during a visit by Suharto to the United States.

One subject they were certain to discuss this time was U.S. military and economic aid to Indonesia. Ford has asked Congress to approve a total of $42.5 million worth for the coming year. But a senior American official said, "That's a minor problem. It will be handled on the aide level."

The official said Indonesia, the largest and most populous country in Southeast Asia, is "of great consequence" as it and the other four members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations — Malaysia, Singapore, The Philippines and Thailand — try to organize themselves into a political, economic and "possibly a security grouping."

The President also was expected to give Suharto an account of his visit to China, with which Indonesia does not have diplomatic relations.

Informed sources said the Indonesians would express their support of the two pro-Indonesian factions in Portuguese Timor and their opposition to the leftist Fretilin movement which declared the island colony independent a week ago and proclaimed the Democratic Republic of East Timor.

The western half of Timor is Indonesian territory, and most observers expect Indonesia to absorb the rest of the island eventually. Fretilin sent two cables to Ford this week, asking him to intercede with Suharto on its behalf, but he and Kissinger were expected to ignore the messages if they ever got them.

Ceremonial banners decorated the streets to welcome the American visitors, and curbs along the main boulevard were given a fresh coat of whitewash. The governor of Jakarta ordered the national flag flown from sunup to sundown today and Saturday.

Ford's schedule in Jakarta included a banquet tonight and a two-hour meeting with Suharto on Saturday before leaving for Manila shortly before noon. Saturday night will be spent with President and Mrs. Ferdinand E. Marcos, and the Fords return to Washington Sunday.

"Give my best to Chairman Mao," Ford told Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping as they said goodbye at the Peking airport.

Kissinger told reporters he felt Teng and Mao clearly signaled that they would accept an arrangement for diplomatic relations with the United States similar to that the Japanese and the Chinese worked out in 1972.

The Japanese withdrew diplomatic recognition of the Nationalist Chinese government on Taiwan and closed its embassy in Taipei but continued trade, economic and cultural relations on a private basis.

Kissinger added, however, that there is no U.S. timetable for breaking diplomatic relations with the Taiwan government, the necessary first step toward full relations with China.

Former Resident, Husband Victims Of Bizarre Slaying

A former resident, with relatives presently residing in Circleville, and her husband were shot and killed in what has been termed as an incident of circumstances in their home located in Blacksburg, Virginia, 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Killed in the freak incident were Mr. and Mrs. Fred (Joan Downing) Dreiling of 706 Burrus Dr., Blacksburg, Va. Their 27-year-old daughter, Carol was shot and seriously wounded in the same incident.

According to law authorities in Blacksburg, two boys were involved in a robbery and murder in Roanoke, Va., 24 hours prior to the Blacksburg incident.

The two killed a druggist and wounded the owner of the store in Roanoke.

In Blacksburg, they shot a student of Virginia Polytechnical Institute on the street and fled to a motel parking lot and then through a residential district.

They stopped at the Dreiling home, apparently because it was the only one in the area with the lights still on. After an unsuccessful attempt to steal one of the cars in the driveway, they knocked at the door, killing Mr. and Mrs. Dreiling when they were admitted to the home.

The two then took Miss Carol Dreiling as a hostage and fled in her car. With authorities in pursuit, they pulled into a driveway, shot Miss Dreiling and dumped her from a car and fled on foot. They shot and wounded the officer who was chasing them. One of the men, identified as John Robert Collins, returned to Roanoke after paying a person to take him there and was arrested 4:30 a.m. Thursday by police.

The other took refuge in a trailer court, held a lady there hostage during the night, and then fled again in the morning. He wounded another person and stole his car. With authorities in pursuit, he wrecked this car. Officers returned the fleeing man's gunfire after the wreck and wounded him. He died an hour after he was taken to a hospital. He was identified as Gregory Lugar. Two more officers were wounded in this exchange of gunfire.

Mr. and Mrs. Dreiling, survived by one daughter, Carol Dreiling, of Blacksburg; four sons, Rick, Washington, D. C.; Dale, Richmond, Va.; Paul, 20, and John, 19, both of Blacksburg.

Mrs. Dreiling is also survived by her mother, Mrs. Walter A. Downing and one brother, Thomas Downing, both of Circleville; two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Heller, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Anne LaFollette, Indianapolis.

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Dreiling will be held 2 p.m. Saturday at Blacksburg Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Westview Cemetery.

Memorial contributions to the Dreiling Children Educational Fund to be administered by the Blacksburg Presbyterian Church would be appreciated by the family.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined slightly today, continuing to struggle against concern over the outlook for the economic recovery and interest rates.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.97 at 827.14, and losers took a slight lead over gainers after trailing earlier on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market seemed to draw a bit of encouragement at the opening from the government's report that the unemployment rate had dropped to 8.3 per cent in November from 8.6 the month before. But the rally attempt that greeted the news proved weak, and prices were headed lower again by midmorning.

Greyhound Corp. was the most active issue on the Big Board, down 1/4 at 12 1/2. A 100,000-share block of the stock traded at that price.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks dropped .13 to 46.22. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index stood unchanged at 82.77.

'Pepsi Connection' In Chilean Coup?

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. efforts to overthrow Chile's Salvador Allende, which one senator has called the Nixon administration's Bay of Pigs, may have been triggered by a "Pepsi connection," according to evidence before the Senate intelligence committee.

Testimony taken both in private and at Thursday's public committee hearing shows that on Sept. 15, 1970, Donald Kendall, president of Pepsi Cola and a close personal friend of President Richard M. Nixon, arranged a meeting in Washington among Henry A. Kissinger, then the president's national security adviser, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Augustin Edwards, publisher of Chile's leading newspaper, El Mercurio.

According to Edward Korry, U.S. ambassador to Chile at the time, Edwards also was the principal bottler of Pepsi Cola in Chile.

The evidence shows Nixon called a meeting later that day of Kissinger, Mitchell and then CIA Director Richard M. Helms at which he instructed the CIA to foment a military coup against Allende, who was on the verge of becoming Chile's first Marxist president.

Helms told the committee last July in secret testimony which was made public as part of the committee's assassination report, "I have this impression that the President called this meeting ... because of Edwards' presence in Washington and what he heard from Kendall about what Edwards was saying about conditions in Chile."

Helms added that he had met privately with Edwards at a

Washington hotel, again at Kendall's request, to interview him about Chile.

Both Korry and committee staff members discounted the possibility that Nixon may have ordered U.S. intervention in an effort to save Pepsi Cola's investments in Chile from nationalization by Allende. By all accounts, Pepsi Cola's financial stake in Chile was minimal, especially compared with such corporations as ITT and the various U.S. firms which controlled 80 per cent of Chile's copper production.

No one could say for sure whether Edwards gained his audiences with Kissinger, Mitchell and Helms because of his business association with Kendall or because he was publisher of El Mercurio, which the committee staff said served as "a major propaganda channel" for the CIA.

According to Korry, that business association later became even closer when Edwards became international vice president for Pepsi Cola.

The CIA failed to prevent Allende's ascension to power, but El Mercurio kept publishing with the help of $1.6 million in U.S. money, according to the committee's staff report. In return, the El Mercurio chain of newspapers, with a total circulation of 300,000, ran CIA-inspired articles, the report said.

The entire CIA operation against Allende, which involved some $8 million over the three years he was in power, ended in September 1973 when he was toppled by a military coup in which the United States had no direct involvement, according to the staff report.

Metzenbaum Attacks Utility Efforts To Keep Old Formula

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum has warned the Ohio legislature that utility lobbyists with "too much power" will make an all-out effort to block repeal of the utility rate formula.

Metzenbaum testified Thursday before a House utilities subcommittee which is considering legislation to replace the current Reconstruction Cost New (RCN) formula with an original cost factor.

"I cannot conceive of any logical reason why Ohio stays with its antiquated RCN formula..." he told the panel, "except that public utilities just have too much power around the Ohio legislature."

With the RCN base, Ohio gas, electric and telephone companies can re-evaluate their capital investments by "trending up" original plant construction costs at current market value, less depreciation. This generally higher cost factor is then calculated in the rate base when utilities apply for increases with the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO).

The PUCO ratemakers who favor repeal say RCN provides utilities with a "valuation in up-to-date prices on out-of-date properties."

Metzenbaum and other critics argue that it provides excessive and unfair profits. The Cleveland Democrat quoted numerous statistics from annual reports and other documents purporting to show a healthy profit picture for Ohio utilities, particularly electric companies.

"I believe that utilities are entitled to make a fair profit, he said. "I do not believe they should be allowed to make an unconscionable profit."

As he concluded his testimony, Metzenbaum gestured toward lobbyists in the committee room and cautioned the lawmakers: "You're going to have a hell of a time getting through all those guys out there. They're rough and they've been very successful over the years."

The utility representatives, most of whom want to retain RCN, will get their chance to testify next week.

Metzenbaum told a newsman after the hearing that he had serious doubts as to whether the repeal will pass both houses before the 11th General Assembly, finishes business next spring.

The bill under consideration, sponsored by Rep. Dennis J. Wojtanowski, D-74 Willoughby Hills, would replace RCN with a formula basing a utility's valuation on actual cost incurred in providing service.

PUCO commissioner David Sweet said the regulatory commission should be required, as part of the bill, to decide rate cases within nine months. When PUCO failed to meet that deadline, he said the utility awaiting action could go ahead and impose the rate increase.

"If the PUCO subsequently orders lower rates, the utility must adjust bills downward to compensate consumers for overcharges," Sweet said.

PUCO has been attempting to cut a 22-month lag time between rate increase requests and its regulatory decision.

Driver Cited In Wreck With Cruiser

A Route 1, Orient, woman was cited for failure to yield the right of way when her car collided with a Pickaway County Sheriff's Cruiser on the McLean Mill Road, 6:39 p.m. Thursday.

Deputy William Carmean, 33, Route 1, Kingston, eastbound on McLean-Mill Road, stopped for the stop sign at McLean-Mill and London Roads and proceeded into the intersection. Margaret J. Stover, 35, Route 1, Orient, westbound on McLean-Mill, applied her brakes but failed to yield to the stop sign and struck the cruiser in the side.

Deputy Carmean attempted to move the cruiser out of the way when he noticed the Stover car was not going to stop, but was unable to move in time.

Deputy Larry Kellenberger investigated the incident.

Cannon Act Brings Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court today agreed to hear a Cleveland television station's appeal from a judgment that Hugo "the Human Cannonball" Zacchini had the right to keep a news film of his performance off the air.

Zacchini was being shot from his cannon at the Geauga County Fair in 1972 when a freelance reporter for station WEWS, owned by Scripps-Howard Broadcasting Co., came to the fair for a story.

Zacchini told the reporter not to film his act, which was a general attraction of the fair and carried no special admission charge. Fair officials imposed no restrictions, and the station told the reporter to film the 15-second performance.

It was televised on the 11 p.m. newscast on Sept. 1, 1972, with co-anchor David Patterson describing it as a "thriller" that had to be seen to be appreciated.

Zacchini sued for $25,000, alleging invasion of privacy and the unauthorized taking of the commercial value of the performance.

The suit was dismissed in the trial court. But the 8th District Court of Appeals reversed the trial court, saying Zacchini could sue for breach of his informal "copyright" of the performance.

State Goofs On Payment

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gynecologist Maurice Moss of Rocky River says that all his patients are women but the Ohio Bureau of Workmen's Compensation insists on paying him for care of a man he didn't treat.

"I think they have a bunch of idiots down there," Dr. Moss said after he received a $118 check a second time.

He said he returned it to the bureau last month with an explanation that "I don't do any workmen's compensation at all because I'm strictly an obstetrician-gynecologist; I take care of women only."

Now, he said, "I don't know what to do with the check."

Moss, whose practice is in Lakewood, said a similar mistaken payment arose in two previous instances but that he heard no more in either case after he returned the payments.

He said he made the case public after reading of the efforts of an Amherst woman, Yvonne M. Alford, to get the bureau to stop issuing checks to her father who died in 1953.

Cold Front Spreads Rain

A cold front pushed rain from the Northwest into central California today as scattered showers lingered over Washington and the Cascade Mountains. Weather in the rest of the country was dry.

High winds continued over the upper Yellowstone Valley of Montana as temperatures in the nation's mid-section remained in the 60s, from the southern Plains to central Missouri.

The coldest areas of the country were in northern New England and section of New York and Montana.

Temperatures overnight ranged from 7 at Gunnison, Colo., to 73 at Miami and Key West, Fla.

Court Turns Down State Tower Suit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court today let stand a lower court ruling that the new State Office Tower was not built with tax money, a key question in a taxpayer's lawsuit contending that more than $903,000 was wasted during construction.

The lower courts refused to hear the suit, saying taxpayers had no interest in the cost of construction. The Supreme Court's decision today bars further action in the suit.

The case is a lawsuit by Nancy Ann Andrews of Columbus on behalf of Ohio taxpayers. It contends that members of the Ohio Building Authority allowed an electrical contractor to back out of his contract.

She argued that the OBA without authorization let Gustaf Hirsch Inc. withdraw a $3.64 million bid for wiring the tower because the company made an error in computing its bid.

The OBA then gave the contract to Hatfield Electric Co. for $4.55 million, or $903,000 more than the original contract.

But the suit was never decided on its merits. The Franklin County Common Pleas Court said the plaintiff "had no special interest" in the cost of construction.

The tower was financed by loans from the Workmen's Compensation Fund. The loans are being repaid from "rent" charged the state agencies using it. The "rent" money comes from appropriations of tax money.

But the lower courts refused to consider the indirect use of tax money, saying that "the construction of the new State Office Building was not as the result of the expenditure of taxpayers' monies or public funds and, accordingly, would not be the subject of a taxpayers' action."

The 10th District Court of Appeals affirmed that ruling on a 2-1 decision, with the majority saying that the taxpayers had not "shown any special interest in the expenditure of these funds."

But the minority opinion said the evidence showed clearly that "the general taxpayers are the persons that will bear the burden of higher costs of the state office building..."

"The general taxpayer on behalf of his class is the only person who has a special interest to raise such a challenge in this case," the minority said.

In asking for Supreme Court review, the plaintiffs said that the lower courts' opinions would allow government to act without accountability to the public by simply juggling funds between accounts.

"If a taxpayer cannot maintain this action, then governmental bureaucracy has no control and will continue to see million dollar decisions made in 15 minutes of consideration by people who are not responsible to the electorate," the appeal said.

Senate-Approved Rail Bill Still Faces Threat Of Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-approved bill that would provide funds for rebuilding the nation's rail system still faces a threatened veto from President Ford.

The Senate voted 53 to 38 late Thursday to authorize the controversial expenditure of $8.6 billion on the rail system, despite a pledge from Ford to veto the bill as too costly.

The legislation basically will provide funding for the government's reorganization of the Penn Central and six other bankrupt northeastern railroads into one rail system known as ConRail.

It also will provide $3 billion to upgrade passenger service in the densely populated northeast corridor between Washington and Boston by improving tracks to allow 150-mile-per-hour train operation.

Approval of the 238-page bill came after the Senate successfully invoked cloture to limit the time of debate on the bill. The legislation now goes to the House, which is considering a similar bill with a much lower pricetag.

The House bill, reported out of subcommittee Thursday, calls for a total expenditure of $7.4 billion. It would provide $2.1 billion in federal aid to ConRail, compared to the Senate's $3 billion figure.

The House bill also would authorize a federal grant of $1.6 million, compared to the Senate's $3 billion authorization, to upgrade the passenger line between Washington and Boston.

The Senate legislation also authorizes $1.4 billion in low interest loans for other railroads across the nation and $900 million in federal funds to subsidize freight train operations over money-losing branch lines.

The Senate bill would make some major changes in the government's regulation of railroads as well. Under its provisions, railroads would be allowed to raise their rates as much as they wish in most cases where they have competition from other carriers. They also could lower rates within certain limits.

Differences between the two bills eventually will be ironed out by a House-Senate conference committee. The revised version then must be approved by both houses before it is sent to President Ford.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Shrink For Abusive Father

DEAR ABBY: I need advice badly and have no one to talk to. My girl friend told me that from the age of 10 until she was 15, her father continuously molested her every chance he got when no one was home. She never told anyone about this because he threatened to kill her if she did.

The problem is that there are still seven younger girls at home, and she is afraid he will do the same to them.

What can be done to make her father seek help without others finding out? Also they don't have much money in case he needs psychiatric treatment.

She doesn't want revenge, and she doesn't want the police to lock him up because her mother needs his paycheck badly.

I told her to threaten to call the police if he molests any of the other girls. Do you think that would work? He is a strict father, and all his children fear him.

HELPING A FRIEND

DEAR HELPING: Tell your friend that she should confide her fears to a clergyman, doctor, teacher, relative or some other responsible adult. Assure her that her father is a very sick man and if he doesn't get help immediately, the consequences could be tragic.

And please write again and let me know what has happened. I care.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged unattached gentleman who enjoys being well-dressed and well-groomed. I am well-educated and have good manners. I am fully employed in a position that pays a modest salary. For the last year, I have been the constant escort of a well-to-do widow who is somewhat older than I am. She foots the bills for dining out and attending the theater, symphony, concerts and opera, which we both love. (I could never afford it.)

The talk around town—that she is “keeping” me—is totally untrue. She has never given me one penny or paid any of my bills.

Would you call me a “gigolo”? And do you see anything wrong with this arrangement? There is no romantic involvement.

TALKED ABOUT

DEAR TALKED: A “gigolo” is a man who is supported by a woman. You're not. I see nothing wrong with the arrangement. In fact, I think it's good for both of you, and as such, I'd tune out the talk.

DEAR ABBY: My son left his wife and children for another woman.

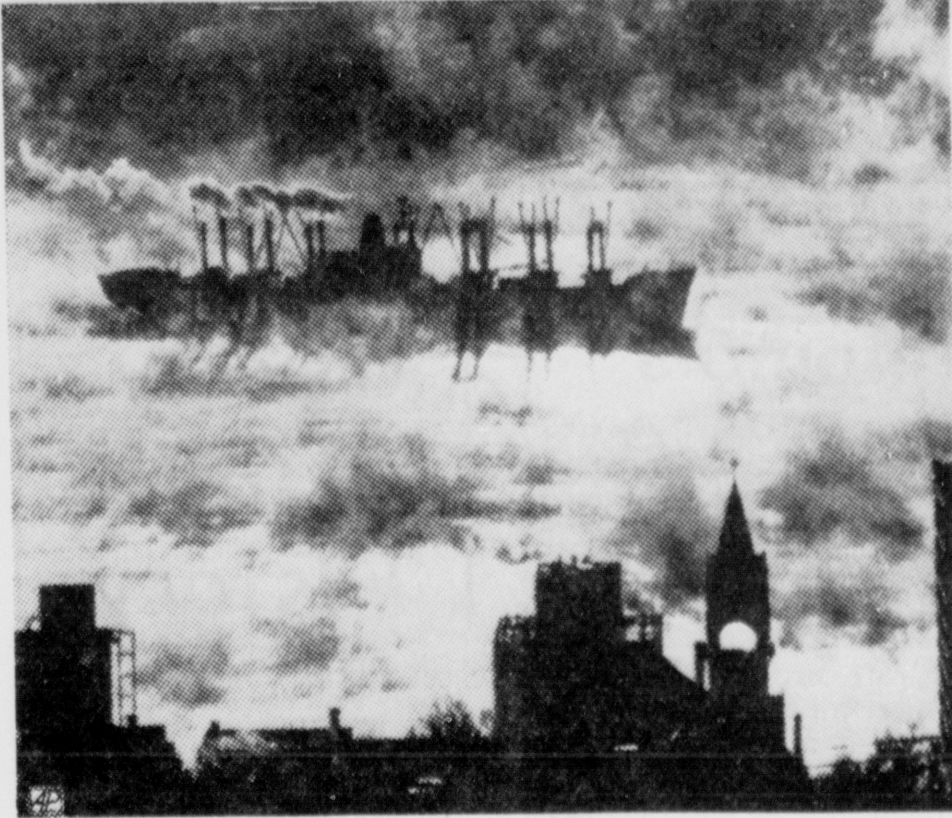

I have always had a very warm relationship with my daughter-in-law. She is a fine person, and I still love her. Besides, being friendly with her makes it easier for me to see my grandchildren, whom I adore.

My son has told me in no uncertain terms that he considers it highly “unethical” for me to maintain a close friendship with his estranged wife.

Is there a code of ethics on this? I'll continue the friendship with her unless you say I'm wrong.

OLD-FASHIONED

DEAR OLD: Continue the friendship. The unethical one is your son.

RADIATION FOG — The ocean vessel “African Sun” is shrouded in cloud cover called “radiation fog” as she enters Duluth harbor from Lake Superior. The fog is caused by cold air over warmer water. The National Weather Service estimated the water temperature at 41 degrees with the air temperature at nearly zero. The ship was to pick up grain for African ports.

Michigan Man Wins Ohio Lottery

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Michigan factory worker Richard Schrader says he's been exchanging about $3 worth of lottery tickets with his sister-in-law in Cleveland every week since the Ohio lottery started last year.

“I buy Michigan lottery tickets and send them to her, and she buys Ohio tickets and sends them to me,” said Schrader, from Lansing.

Thursday night the mutual exchange paid off when Schrader won $1,000 a month for life in the Ohio lottery's Buckeye 1,000 game.

Schrader said his sister-in-law, Marie Salzer, won $25 once in the Michigan lottery.

Schrader said he's been planning to retire in a few years and go to Florida, where a son, Paul, 27, lives.

Now, he said, “Maybe I'll make it a couple of years earlier ...”

One contestant in the Buckeye 1,000 said at first he wanted to remain anonymous but changed his mind at the last minute and gave his name as Charles Huxtable.

Huxtable of Twinsburg won $4,000.

Charles Mobley of Eaton won $10,000. Other winners included Esther Bevan, Bucyrus, $7,500; Linda Briley, Reynoldsburg, $5,000; Walter Armour, Bromley, Ky., $3,000; James Seevers, Marietta, $2,000, and John Mick, Bainbridge, $1,000.

Urge Lottery Supervision Over Bingo

BARBERTON, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Sen. David L. Headley of Barberton has proposed that the Ohio Lottery Commission license operators of charitable Bingo games, rather than creating a new board for Bingo.

The Democrat introduced a bill that would limit Bingo operators to 15 per cent of gross receipts for operating and administrative expenses. It doesn't specify how much must go to charity.

The bill provides for $50 annual licenses plus quarterly reports from the operators to the commission.

Headley said he wasn't insistent that the lottery commission handle the matter but that he felt the lottery is “basically a pretty clean operation” despite the allegations of political misconduct that arose a few months ago.

Other bills before the legislature permit as much as 40 per cent of gross receipts for operating expenses and require at least 40 per cent be awarded in prizes. One drafted by Atty. Gen. William Brown but yet to be introduced requires one-third of gross receipts be given to charities, leaving the rest for prizes and costs.

Voters approved charitable Bingo operations in November's general election.

New Audel Mini-Guides include: “Motorcycle Maintenance and Repair,” “Home Plumbing Repairs,” “Small Engines Maintenance and Repair,” “Home Sanitation and Water Conditioning Repair.”

“Easi-Guide To CB Radio For Truckers” by Forest Belt and “Tube Substitution Handbook” should be of interest to the person in electronics.

Other non-fiction, new on the shelf, includes “Growing Up Thin” by Dr. Alvin N. Eden. The author, a pediatrician, tells you how to fatproof your child for life.

“Crazy Salad” by Nora Ephron tells you some things about women. It's a collection of witty and wise pieces on women. It's frank and it's funny.

Fans of the “Detroit Tigers” can read all about them in a book of the same title by Joe Falls.

Joseph Wambaugh is well known for his police tales. His latest, “The Choirboys” is a strong story about the

“In The Beginning” by Chaim Potok is a novel that moves with the tumults and joys of Jewish family life from the late 1920s to the shock of WW II and the Holocaust.

Income taxes aren't a favorite subject. This is especially true in the holiday season. With January's arrival, however, they become a fact! The Pickaway County District Public Library is planning a series of programs to help you with your tax preparation. It will feature 4 speakers on 4 Friday evenings, Jan. 9-30, 7:30-9:00 p.m. in the library. We will have representatives from IRS, H&R Block, a local Attorney and a local accountant to speak on different areas. It is free and open to the public. Watch for more details at a latter date but mark your calendar NOW for these sessions.

Take time out to read and relax. Visit the library and get the Christmas spirit.

Plant Blast Trial Attorney Rapped

NEW HAVEN (AP) — A federal court judge Thursday reprimanded a defense attorney and his client for failing to insure that their witnesses testify on schedule in the Sponge Rubber arson trial.

“I assure you both you're not going to be permitted to dictate the speed of this case,” U.S. District Court Judge Jon O. Newman told attorney Rudolph Lion Zalowitz of New Jersey after four of 12 defense witnesses failed to appear Thursday.

It was the second time this week that Zalowitz failed to present enough witnesses to keep court in session until 5 p.m.

Court adjourned at 4 p.m. Thursday after Zalowitz exhausted his supply of witnesses. On Tuesday the session ended at 4:40 p.m.

Zalowitz represents the Rev. David M. Bubar who has been charged with eight others in the March 1 firebombing of the Sponge Rubber Products Co. in Shelton.

Bubar, a self-proclaimed psychic, reportedly predicted disaster at the $10 million factory. The prosecution contends the defendants blew up the plant to collect $62 million in insurance.

On Thursday nationally syndicated columnist Jack Anderson and three other witnesses subpoenaed by Zalowitz failed to appear.

Anderson spoke Wednesday at the University of New Haven. Zalowitz could not explain the columnist's absence nor did he say why he wanted Anderson to testify.

He told the court the other witnesses did not appear because they were not in the area and did not have time to catch a plane for the proceeding.

Zalowitz said he worked until after midnight Tuesday preparing the subpoenas.

“I was in the state of comatose. I was absolutely exhausted but I assume the burden,” he said.

Zalowitz has asked U.S. District

Court Judge Jon O. Newman to allow 246 potential defense witnesses to be compensated for their time by the federal government. So far Newman has said 20 witnesses can testify on federal money.

The state presented more than 300 witnesses in the early stages of the trial.

A Page Of Opinion

Blinded Satellites, Blind Diplomats

The news that the Soviet Union is apparently testing some type of infra-red beam to blind American satellites is but another instance of Russian contempt for detente.

Meanwhile, this nation's blind diplomats, at least officially, seem to shrug off continuing Soviet actions in violation of previous agreements.

Like the camel's nose in the tent, the tests may be but the opener in Russian activities carried out in secret and aimed at eventual victory over this country.

One can easily imagine what would happen if all U.S. satellites were suddenly blinded immediately prior to a massive Soviet strike against the United States.

And yet this news, which has undoubtedly been known for some time by the government becomes public hard on the heels of action by federal officials to attempt a delay in construction of new American aircraft carriers.

After all the preaching and prattling about keeping this nation militarily strong, the President and his associates need to be doing, not delaying.

A Good And Loving Son

By JIM BISHOP

The good son punishes himself with acts of love. It's a demanding, impossible role. A boy can break his heart trying to live up to his mother's ideals.

Morris Lerner chose it. He was 17, one of seven children of Sam and Sarah Lerner in Szezbresryan, Poland. The year was 1919. A few miles from Szezbresryan, Polish regiments were fighting Russian Bolsheviks.

Mrs. Lerner burst into tears. She was tired of war, pogroms, Jewish poverty, discrimination. She wiped her eyes and said she would send one of her children to the United States.

To Sam and the children, she was dreaming. They had no money. Mrs. Lerner took to the streets in the mornings and sold jewelry. When she had earned $110, she made her selection. It was the chunky, pale smiler: Morris.

"You will go to America," she said, "not to get rich. I want you to look for freedom."

Steerage is a foul hole. Morris got his passport, his ticket. He said he would work in the new country and send for the rest of the family, one by one. "My son," she said, cupping his face, "take care of yourself. We don't need promises."

In New York, Morris Lerner was ashamed of himself. He had one year of Russian schooling — precisely the amount permitted to Jews. He got a job as a restaurant busboy. The pay was $12.

It was an intelligent move. He could eat free. He rented a windowless room for $2 a week. The East Side girls smiled at Morris. To be the good boy, he had to turn away.

Ten a week went to mother. He worked at Ratner's. When a rare customer tipped Morris, he used the extra money to go to the Yiddish theater. His eyes swam at the eloquence of a young girl, Molly Picon, and a haughty actor, Boris Thomashefsky.

Every word that was uttered onstage was translated aloud by the entire audience. As the good boy earned more money, he sent more home. One day he received a note from his father: "Stop sending money. I'm the richest man in town."

It was true. In the ghetto, Sam had used the money to buy into other businesses. Morris entreated his family to use the money to come to America.

In time, the good boy welcomed them with misty eyes. His father tried the U.S. for a month. "I must go back to Poland," the rabbinical scholar said. "Here they expect me to go to work."

Morris matured. He worked harder than other waiters. He seldom looked at a clock. He worked at Schwartz's in Borough Park and earned $100 a week serving lox to gangsters.

He learned English reading Arthur Brisbane in the New York American. It was painful punditry. "I bought already a black jacket and a bow tie," he says. This won him a job at Brooks Spring House in the Catskills.

In the Depression, he got a job at Gurlen & Brown's in Manhattan. There he served knuckles and kraut to Dutch Schultz and his gang. His four brothers and two sisters got good jobs. Momma flourished in the new country.

Morris moved up. He was night manager of Rappaport's, at 2nd Ave. and 6th St. The good boy felt that this was the last stop. Without an education, without mathematics, he could do no further.

He met a small blonde bookkeeper. Her name was Ruth Prayder. The good boy — free at last to lead his own life — married her. It was love, a partnership, a mutual admiration society.

Wholesale Prices Stable In November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seasonally adjusted wholesale prices showed no change in November, the government reported today, signalling an easing in inflationary pressures.

The Labor Department reported that prices actually fell by four-tenths of a per cent during November, but that after adjustment for seasonal variations the wholesale price index was flat.

The easing in inflationary pressure follows the biggest increase in wholesale prices of the year in October, when the index jumped 1.8 per cent after seasonal adjustment.

The November report marked the smallest variation in wholesale prices since they declined by one-tenth of a per cent in June.

The stable performance means the index is now 3.7 per cent ahead of where it was a year ago. This is the smallest 12-month climb since the year ending in April 1972 and is a sharp contrast to the 23.5 per cent by which wholesale prices had increased in the previous 12 months ending last November.

The Labor Department attributed November's price performance to lower food prices and a moderation of prices for industrial commodities, which had surged in October.

October's increase was the biggest since the same month a year ago and marked the fourth consecutive monthly increase this year.

It was powered largely by higher prices for automobiles, steel mill products and lumber and wood products — all of which remained stable or declined less than one-tenth of a per cent in November.

At the same time, prices for farm products dropped 1.2 per cent in November, their first decrease in three months and the largest since a 1.4 per cent dive in June.

Crowded Docket Not Excuse For Trial Delay, Court Rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Wednesday that a crowded trial docket is not a sufficient reason in itself to delay criminal trials.

The court in a 7-0 decision overturned the conviction of a man who was not brought to trial on a drunken driving charge within the 90-day limit set by law.

The Supreme Court said allowing the excuse of crowded trial dockets would undercut the intentions of the General Assembly in enacting time limits for trials.

The case involved Jay R. Pudlock, who was arrested on Jan. 9, 1974, and demanded a jury trial on the charge. When the trial date had not been set by May 31, his lawyer asked the charges be dropped.

The trial judge refused, saying that "the physical impossibility of bringing this case to trial prior to this date constitutes a 'reasonable continuance.'"

Pudlock was tried and found guilty in late June.

In its unanimous opinion, the court said there may be some cases in which docket congestion would be a valid grounds for going beyond the limits.

But the court said in general "practices which undercut the implementation of the 'speedy trial' provisions within (state law) must not be employed to extend the requisite time periods..."

"It is evident that to allow a trial court to extend the required time period under the above circumstances would...thwart the intent of the General Assembly to provide specified time limits within which an accused must be brought to trial," the court said.

California Floats Comfort Stations

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Last year California installed floating toilets in five mountain lakes. They proved so popular with fishermen that the state has decided to place them on other lakes as well.

One benefit derived from these conveniences is that a boat owner can tie his boat to the restroom. The toilet boats are 24 feet by 11 feet and cost approximately $14,000. These restrooms are under jurisdiction of the State Department of Navigation and Ocean Development which hopes the floating lavatories will help prevent water pollution and enhance enjoyment of the fishermen.

Dr. John E. Gilman, 1891-1916, born in Marietta, Ohio, performed in Chicago the first operation in which the X-ray was used.

The entry road to A. W. Marion State Park was paved, according to the Pickaway County Highway Department.

Circleville Jaycees planned to participate in the Armed Forces Appreciation Day. Jaycees were urging local citizens to display their American Flags. The gesture was to be conducted in conjunction with the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Russell Ogan, Municipal Court bailiff, was given a leave of absence by Judge Sterling Lamb to serve as a special officer with the Circleville Police Department. Judge Lamb's son, Richard, was named as temporary bailiff. The move was designed to beef-up the police department, which was hard-hit by officer resignations.

It was confirmed that the nation's largest sycamore tree was located 1½ miles south of South Bloomfield at the Valley View Ridge area off Route 23. Speaking Of Your Health by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Many readers write and inquire about strokes. The confusion that exists is understandable because there are so many variations of this condition.

A stroke is sometimes called "apoplexy" or "cerebral vascular accident" (CVA). All strokes indicate that the normal supply of blood and oxygen to the brain has been interfered with. This could be caused by a spasm of an artery, by a break (hemorrhage) or an artery, or by a clot that forms within the blood vessels. The latter is known as a "thrombus."

The severity of a stroke and the symptoms associated with it depend, of course, on the size of the blood vessel that is affected.

When the blood supply to a large portion of the brain is affected, many different symptoms will appear.

The brain itself has many separate areas which are responsible for movement, for pain control, for speech, for hearing, for sight, and for all other functions of the body.

Stroke symptoms are therefore dependent on the part of the brain that is affected by the interference with the blood supply.

Not all people with stroke have their speech affected. There is a small part of the brain known as "Broca's area." It is responsible for the understanding of the spoken word. In a right-handed person the Broca's area is located in the left side of the brain. In a left-handed person, it is located in the right side of the brain.

If the blood supply to Broca's area is interrupted, speech will be affected.

There are many complex reasons why some people with strokes develop paralysis of the legs and arms, while others do not.

There was a time when a sense of hopelessness was associated with this condition. Today, victims of stroke, even very severe strokes, are now being released from the limitations of chronic invalidism.

The science of rehabilitative medicine has been responsible for the most ingenious techniques for retaining the person with stroke, and again returning him to comparative good health and personal dignity.

Psychological support, in addition to physical reeducation, has been remarkably effective in the treatment of stroke convalescents.

Levi Criticizes Past FBI Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unlike most of his predecessors, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi says he insists on supervising the FBI and is voicing criticism of the agency's past misdeeds.

Levi says his major effort to control FBI conduct lies in a comprehensive set of guidelines now being drafted to prevent future abuses such as those described to the Senate intelligence committee on Wednesday.

The FBI spied on newsmen, government officials and civil rights leaders under presidents of both parties and agents were used for political purposes as early as the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, witnesses told the committee.

Testimony during the past two weeks has included a flood of fresh details about FBI attempts to discredit the late Martin Luther King and other civil rights leaders, sow dissension among political activists and collect and spread derogatory information about politicians.

FBI officials have made only feeble attempts at a defense. They acknowledge there was no legal justification for many activities, but point out that past presidents and attorneys general must share the responsibility. They murmur "the times were different" in the 1960s when the FBI's disruptive tactics and political abuse peaked.

Levi also notes that concern about the sometimes violent civil rights and antiwar protests of the 1960s may have surpassed concern about individual rights to free speech and privacy.

But he frequently and publicly has labeled many FBI harassment tactics outrageous and some of them foolish. He said Wednesday the tactics used against King "come under the heading of outrageous."

No one in the FBI hierarchy has publicly endorsed that characterization.

Those officials who are considered most loyal to the late FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who presided over the harassment campaigns and political intelligence-gathering, have privately expressed dismay at Levi's remarks.

Besides the public criticism, Levi says he has demonstrated his effort to control the direction of the FBI by ordering a Justice Department committee, which includes an FBI representative, to develop guidelines limiting domestic intelligence-gathering and file-keeping operations.

One proposal, he says, would allow the FBI to spy only on activities with a clear potential for violence and would require regular reports to the attorney general on such spying.

He also has ordered officials "to take a look at the entire subject of the relationship between the bureau and Martin Luther King."

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

It is near the season of Thanksgiving and I want to give thanks to some very deserving people. I am a Circleville Bible College Student. My home is Salisbury, Md.

After coming out here for my first year I found the community very pleasant, but four men bent over backwards for me. They provided me with transportation and employment and many other things which I appreciate very much.

These four men are Earl Palm, Charlie Gerhardt, Steve Smalley and Bill Bennett.

In trying to find some way to show my appreciation I realized the only thing I could do would be to show the community that there are reasons to be proud. It's men like these who make the nation great. As a Circleville Bible College student far from home, I say "thank you."

BILL LOWRY

They'll Do It Every Time

ROTARY SPEAKER — Rotarian Bob Burton, left, introduced Thursday's guest speakers to the Rotary Club. Jack Mader, center, and Mrs. Sue Schneider spoke to the group on the Emergency Medical Team and the services provided to the residents of Circleville and Circleville Township.

Rotary Club Hears EMT Members Speak

At the regular Rotary Club meeting Thursday at noon, Bob Burton introduced Jack Mader and Sue Schneider. Mader and Mrs. Schneider are members of the Emergency Medical Team.

Fellow Rotarian Mader told of the functioning of the local squad from noon until midnight. Hopefully, after Jan. 5, the squadmen will be able to offer 24-hour service.

The vehicle itself represents an investment of the city of $20,000. There is an additional $5,000 worth of equipment in it. According to Mader, the van has a life expectancy of 20 years because the chassis can be interchanged with another motor when it becomes necessary.

Squad members who staff the vehicle must have 60 hours initial training but can take additional training and seminars when available.

Dr. William Myers is the medical advisor to the team.

The speakers also told the Rotarians about the equipment which is carried on the van. A porta power unit can be used to lift heavy objects or to open jammed doors.

The squad answers from 30 to 35 calls per month and the whole operation is strictly on a volunteer basis with no charge made to those people who call for help.

EMT members provide service to residents of Circleville and Circleville Township. Negotiations are now being made with surrounding townships to extend that service.

Financing is a tremendous problem and Mader advised the club that any organization or individual may make donations to help further equip the vehicle to provide better service.

Youth Corps Officer Charged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Elsworth L. Brown Jr., a former officer of the Clark County Neighborhood Youth Corps, has been charged with three counts of forgery following an investigation of a check fraud scheme, authorities said.

Brown was charged following an investigation by Springfield police of checks allegedly written by him that bounced, said J. Tullis Rogers, an attorney for the Department of Administrative Services. The forged signatures on the checks were that of the head of the youth corps, Rogers said.

William Michael Skiver, director of the Appalachian Human Development and Economic Community Organization, was suspended as a result of the investigation.

The organization serves Ross, Scioto, Lawrence, Pike, Jackson, Gallia and Vinton counties with vocational training programs. It is federally funded.

Rogers said the investigation showed that Skiver had made 13 loans totaling $191,800 to the youth corps operation through Brown.

Skiver has not been charged with any violations, but was suspended from his job without pay on Oct. 8 for making unauthorized loans.

Order Of The Arrow Schedules Meeting

The Pickaway Chapter of the Order of the Arrow will meet 7 p.m. Sunday in the Scout Room at the Trinity Lutheran Church, 135 E. Mound St.

Business meeting will include the election of officers for the 1976 term and plans for the campout scheduled for Dec. 19-21.

Glenn Learns Political Dialogue

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — After his first year in Congress, Sen. John H. Glenn is showing signs of giving in to whatever it is that makes Washington politicians talk so much.

Ohio's freshman senator admitted it in a Columbus news conference when he took nearly five minutes to answer a reporter's question. He apologized. "It's getting to me," he grinned, adding that "you can't stop to say hello in Washington in less than five minutes."

But if the former astronaut is getting a little wordy, he also indicates he is catching on to the workings of the bureaucracy, including the art of compromise.

Glenn explained at length the difficulty he encountered as a conferee on the new federal energy bill, which he predicted President Ford would sign despite "tremendous pressures for a veto."

November Auto Sales Show Spurt

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales last month shot up 35 per cent above the recession levels of November 1974 to provide the most dramatic sign yet that the auto industry has pulled out of its two-year slump.

The year-to-year percentage gain, reported Wednesday, was the largest for any month in nearly four years and contrasted sharply to a year ago, when plummeting sales forced unprecedented plant closings and massive worker layoffs.

However, sales of foreign cars, which had taken a record share of the U.S. market earlier this year, were the poorest since last December and the second lowest in 6½ years. Sales fell 4 per cent from already poor levels of November 1974.

The imports' weak showing, combined with strong domestic sales, gave foreign makers their smallest share of the U.S. market in four years.

Importers blamed their sales decline on shortages of some models and increased competition in the small-car market from Detroit, which has gone all out this year to match foreign cars in fuel economy.

Auto analysts said the sharp November gains by the U.S. companies reflected an accelerated recovery which got under way in early fall. They said sales had been improving earlier this year, but not as rapidly.

He said the administration had a lot of input in the legislation and that "we had one meeting after another, and went from office to office before we finally got an agreement."

The senator's obvious satisfaction over the Senate-House compromise is attributable in part to the fact it embodies, to a degree, the fulfillment of a 1974 campaign pledge to help give the country "a national energy policy."

And it came at a time when Glenn's national political stock received a boost from polls showing his popularity higher than any of the announced contenders for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

How did Glenn feel about the polls after only about a year in his first elective office? "Naturally, I was gratified," he said, but added "I'll say what I've said before. I'm not running for anything, but I'm not running from it either."

However, the senator at the same time said he is reconsidering the possibility of running as a favorite son presidential candidate in Ohio's June primary. But if he did so, he said, it would represent an attempt to give Ohio a better organized delegation to the convention next summer in New York City and not to further any presidential ambitions of his own.

Glenn and others have said repeatedly that they want to prevent a recurrence of the fractional voting and general confusion that marked Ohio's participation in the 1972 convention at Miami Beach before a nationwide television audience.

In response to specific questions, the senator refused "to give a blank check" and promise his support for the Democratic nominee no matter who it might turn out to be. At the same time, he refused to rule out the possibility that he could support Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace despite his obvious philosophical differences with the southerner.

"He's like the other candidates. I agree with him on some things and disagree with him on others," Glenn concluded, in what sounded like his newly acquired Washington dialogue.

Name 3 Persons In Dual Slaying

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A grand jury has indicted three persons in the slaying of two elderly Ottawa Hills women last month.

David Wernert, 36; his wife, Patricia, 32, and Richard Arterberry, 21, were each indicted by a Lucas County grand jury on Wednesday on charges of aggravated murder with prior calculation and design and aggravated murder in the commission of a felony.

Harriet Wernert, 67, and her mother, Velma Bush, 97, were beat to death Nov. 18 in their home.

Wernert is the son and grandson of the victims.

The trio was in custody under $500,000 bond, pending an arraignment Dec. 11.

Afternoon temperatures will rise into the 60s in many parts of Ohio today and well into the 50s elsewhere. Moisture will accompany the warm air into Ohio and clouds will increase over the state.

Showers will develop over the state tonight and continue Saturday as the cool air moves in.

Mild but breezy weather was forecast for today. Warm air from the Gulf of Mexico brought mild weather to much of the midwest, including Ohio, this morning.

Temperatures were in the 40s over most of the state early this morning. The coolest section was in the eastern counties where Zanesville and Youngstown reported readings in the upper 30s in the predawn hours.

At some places the mercury even rose a few degrees during the night. A strong low pressure system moving across southern Canada is drawing this warm air northward. As the low passes into eastern Canada a surge of cooler air will drop southeast across the Great Lakes and spread over Ohio Saturday.

Israeli Arabs Resist Pressure

JERUSALEM (AP) — The 600 Israeli Arabs studying at the Hebrew University in Jerusalem have balked at an order to help guard the campus against Arab terrorist attacks.

Their refusal to watch over dormitories is symptomatic of a dilemma among the 500,000 Arabs of Israel — Palestinians who chose to be part of the Jewish state that came into being in 1948, rather than become refugees.

The university controversy, which has sparked demonstrations and sporadic violence, puts into focus the problem of dual loyalty faced by Israel's Palestinians.

"We should not be asked to do this," says Nadir Gegaissy, a 24-year-old law student who speaks for the Arab group. "Our situation is too delicate for us to be subjected to such risks."

The university administration has threatened to evict them from the dormitories, which they share with 6,000 Jewish students. The Arabs have offered to perform any alternative duty, even to swab floors, rather than stand guard.

The issue has been made more ticklish because of the recent United Nations resolution branding Zionism, the movement that brought about a Jewish homeland in the Middle East, as racist.

Some Jewish students claim that extremists among the Arabs have seized upon the security problem as a weapon with which to embarrass the Israelis. "They want to be evicted so they can say the U.N. was right in calling Zionism a form of racism," argues one student.

The guard duty amounts to a two-hour vigil for every 40 days in the company of an armed Jewish student. The Arabs would be unarmed.

The Arabs point out that Israel does not draft them into the army because of the dualloyalty problem and they ask why they should be forced to perform guard duty.

"Living in the dormitories is a privilege for both Jews and Arabs," replies David Asulin, 27, of the campus student union which is demanding the Arabs do guard duty. "If a bomb explodes, is it going to discriminate between Jews and Arabs?"

Abraham Harman, president of Hebrew University, says: "Guard duty is a necessary nuisance. But we're not asking any Arab to point a machine gun at Syria or Lebanon."

"If anyone, Jew or Arab, feels it is against his conscience to report a timebomb to the police, then he shouldn't be allowed on the campus."

Many Israeli Arabs feel they will always be outcasts by the very definition of Zionism — to build a Jewish state with a Jewish majority and Jewish government.

CBC Students Participate In Day Of Fasting

The students and faculty of Circleville Bible College participated in the National Day of Fasting proposed by Senator Mark Hatfield on Nov. 24.

Because of other campus activities the offering, representing the concern for the less fortunate sections of the world was scheduled for Dec. 3. A total of approximately $160. was collected during chapel Wednesday and forwarded to the Medical Assistance Program in Wheaton, Illinois. The group of Christian doctors is working in conjunction with the Health, Education and Economic Development program in Bangladesh (HEED Bangladesh).

During the last five years Bangladesh has suffered some of the most devastating natural disasters such as flood and famine in living memory. It is a country where 150,000 children go blind annually for lack of vitamin A in their diet, where 200,000 die annually of leprosy, where there are 100,000 people for each trained nurse; and one where only 75 hospital beds are available for children in the entire nation.

"Religion With Honesty and Integrity" is the sermon theme for the Sunday service at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

The sermon topic for the morning service at the Ringgold United Methodist Church is "What Do We Want For Christmas?". The evening topic "It Was God's Move".

Noel McLaren Speaks To Pastors, Wives

The Pickaway County Ministerial Association met at the Trinity Lutheran Church Wednesday morning for its regular monthly meeting. The meeting, attended by 21 persons was opened with devotions conducted by the Rev. David Case.

Discussions of the group centered around committee reports on CROP, Hospital Chaplaincy program, the transient program, Christmas choir programs, Preaching Mission, and many other items of concern to the pastors and churches they serve.

Dr. Gene Mendenhall introduced the program for the day which was led by The Rev. Noel McLaren, pastor, and counselor as he dealt with Problems Peculiar to the Pastor's Wife. Several pastors wives were present to share in this special presentation.

Ministers Set Dates For Mission

The Pickaway County Ministerial Association's Committee for the Circleville Area Preaching Mission met Wednesday to finalize plans for the 1976 Mission.

The Rev. William Hill, Circleville Nazarene pastor and president of the Association, presided over the Committee made up of pastors, Ray Heimbach, Jefferson Church of Christ in Christian Union; Marion Nansel, Church of the Brethren; Fred Mercer, Church of God; Carl Zehner, Trinity Lutheran; and Robert P. Miller, Emmett Chapel United Methodist.

The speaker for the 1976 Mission will be The Rev. Paul E. Uhrig of Richmond, Virginia. Uhrig is a minister in the Eastern Region of the Evangelical Friends Church and has traveled widely, preaching in colleges, churches and religious conventions throughout the United States. He has also served pastorates in Pennsylvania, North Carolina and Virginia.

He was acting president of Malone College located in Canton, in 1959 and 1960. Dr. Uhrig received his Doctorate from Asbury College, Wilmore, Kentucky in 1967.

Having conducted hundreds of television programs over the last 15 years, Dr. Uhrig is known as "Richmond's Television Pastor." His weekly program "Guideposts to Happiness" is receiving the highest rating of any religious telecast originating in the State of Virginia.

Dates for the 1976 Preaching Mission are Feb. 22-25 to be hosted by the Trinity Lutheran Church on East Mound Street.

Most of the committees of laymen are complete with Charles Hickey serving again this year as the General Chairman.

Christian School Fights U.S. Rules

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The moral standards demanded by Brigham Young University are a rarity on the modern educational scene, and the Mormons who run the university are fighting what they consider a threat to its integrity by the federal government.

Taking such a stance of resistance is unusual for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which traditionally has stressed civic dutifulness and compliance with governing authority.

"Our justification as an institution is at stake," says the university's president, Dallin H. Oaks, a former trial attorney and law professor.

He says the new controls have appalled many church-run colleges.

"What they're doing is illegal, goes beyond the act of Congress and beyond the U.S. Constitution." He notes that not in this century have Mormons raised such a challenge to government regulations.

In this case, however, they strike at "an important part of our function as a Christian teaching institution, at part of our religious philosophy," he said in an interview. "It's a fundamental matter."

As unusual as the Mormon protest are the university's codes of conduct themselves, which insist on standards of personal behavior and appearance that have gone by the wayside on most campuses.

Under those rules, students and staff must adhere to sexually distinguishing modes of dress and grooming, shun drugs, tobacco, alcohol, coffee and tea, disavow cheating or other dishonesty, and pledge adherence to the law of chastity.

Violations are cause for expulsion. Any student involved in pre-marital or extra-marital sex are "counseled out" by their religious counselors, who also interview them before admission to determine if they are morally qualified. They sign forms attesting to their moral commitments.

The new federal regulations would "prevent us from taking action" about violations of standards of sexual behavior, says Oaks. "It's an attack on one of the important and unique values of our school, a part of our religious philosophy and theory of learning."

The university at Provo, Utah, with 25,000 students, has the biggest full-time enrollment of any private institution of higher education in the country. About 1,000 students, 4 per cent, are non-Mormons.

Oaks, 43, head of the university for four years, said that maintaining its distinctive moral qualities is especially vital in a time when "the whole moral atmosphere of education has degenerated across the country. We're one of the few schools that still care how students behave. It sets us apart."

But he said new federal regulations, issued by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare under Title IX, a 1972 law barring sex discrimination, goes beyond the law to prohibit judging applicants in regard to abortions, pregnancies and other sex practices.

He said the university will not heed parts of the new regulations that impede it from upholding its moral values.

I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Philippians 3:14

And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be servant of all. Mark 10:44.

IT'S FOR YOU

When someone says, "It's for you," our minds begin to buzz with questions. Who is it? What do they want? Good News? Bad News? Work? Pleasure?

It's for you! Commanding words that summon our immediate attention. And those words apply as well to the Church as they do to a telephone call.

The Church is for you! Its services of worship, its program of religious education, its comforting ministration in time of spiritual crisis . . . all for you!

And the Church has a vital message — good news for a discouraged world. It has a glorious work before it — a happy fellowship for men, women and children of noble purpose.

The Church deserves your support. It's for you!

WAITING WITH DADDY — Three-year-old Adam Smith sits beside his father, Martin, on a Denver street as they wait for an ambulance. The pair was knocked off a bicycle by a motorist. The elder Smith was taken to a local hospital and treated for a wrist injury, while Adam suffered minor injury to his hand. The motorist was cited for an illegal U-turn.

Abbie Hoffman: Man On The Run

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Abbie Hoffman, founder of the Yippies, author and perhaps the best known radical on the run, has worked as a teacher, posed as a wealthy Texas oilman and had three nose jobs during more than 20 months as a fugitive.

Hoffman talked about life underground in two days of interviews with Jeff Nightbyrd, editor of the weekly Austin Sun. Nightbyrd wrote in a copyright story Thursday that Hoffman was in Texas around Thanksgiving.

Hoffman, one of the Chicago Seven charged and later cleared of disrupting the 1968 Democratic National Convention, has been wanted in New York since he failed to appear in State Supreme Court on March 25, 1974, to face charges of cocaine possession.

Nightbyrd, who got to know Hoffman at the Woodstock rock festival and later in antiwar activities, said he hadn't heard from Hoffman in two years when a woman contacted him on Hoffman's behalf.

The woman convinced him over the telephone she spoke for Hoffman by recounting how Nightbyrd lost $20 to Hoffman shooting pool in Miami.

Nightbyrd said that he failed to recognize Hoffman when he first saw him at a major Texas airport because Hoffman had disguised himself to look like a wealthy oilman. Nightbyrd said Hoffman told him that he had three nose operations since going underground.

They wandered unrecognized in a major Texas city, drove through the countryside and danced at a honky tonk saloon, Nightbyrd said.

Asked about the impact of Patty Hearst's arrest on the underground, Hoffman said, "Everybody freaked out for a number of reasons. No. 1, (the FBI) learned tons about how an underground works just from putting that much energy into a case. They began to understand an above-ground support system.

"No. 2, they got an incredible amount of publicity. They know where they score points, and who's going to give them headlines. The FBI's an enormous public relations firm. They always have been.

"Patty's situation was different from mine. I'd been helping people for four or five years and I had friends all over. Patty was kidnaped, then converted in five or six weeks. She only had six friends that were underground, and they were all in the same room.

"I have a variety of identities which I change from time to time. But even then it gets sticky. My face was known to thousands of people before, and I'm afraid someone will recognize me."

Nightbyrd said Hoffman has had at least two jobs since going underground, including a teaching job.

He quoted Hoffman as saying, "I was at a party one night and this guy says, 'Hey, I know who you are!' And I'm trying to turn around so he won't see my face while I'm edging toward the door.

"But this guy persists. 'You're, you're....' then blurts out real loud: 'Serpico!' It was a downer. I showed him my driver's license, and that convinced him I wasn't Serpico. I hated to disappoint him."

Taft Attacks Senate Actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio, says the Senate, through its extravagance, has virtually assured that Congress will end the year without enacting a Rail Services Act into law.

Taft said the bill passed by the Senate Thursday "is doomed to a veto which I fully expect will be sustained" because it contains $3 billion for Northeast Corridor passenger service.

Earlier the Senate defeated an amendment offered by Taft to cut that figure to $1.08 billion.

Taft said he wanted to see the money and the benefits of the bill to be distributed among all the people of the country.

He said Ohio cannot obtain the $40 million needed to provide suitable rail transportation between Cleveland and Cincinnati, but "the people of Ohio are being asked in this bill to provide billions of dollars to cut one half hour off the train time between Washington and New York."

GOP Senate Chief Calls It Quits

PITTSBURGH (AP) — After 33 years in Congress, Hugh Scott has decided to end his elective political career.

There was no fanfare, no exit in a blaze of glory, as the 75-year-old Philadelphia lawyer called it quits at a Pittsburgh dinner honoring another Pennsylvania Republican.

There was also no news conference, which he had often used with consummate skill to make his point during the 16 years he served in the House and the 17 more in the Senate where he has been Minority Leader since 1969. He has 13 months to go in his present term.

In a brief, written statement Thursday night he said he would not seek re-election next year, alluding to his already long service to his state and his country and to a desire to spend more time in rest and recreation.

Never once did Scott mention the current controversy raging around him, centering on charges he knew about illegal cash contributions to him from the Gulf Oil Corp. for almost two decades.

Scott has been generally silent since the Gulf story broke, but his office released a response on the subject. It said:

"I have never knowingly received any corporate funds from anybody, anytime. I am not going to have any further statement."

Scott did not discuss the Gulf case with reporters Thursday, but he alluded to it in remarks at the dinner: "Anyone who lays a hand on me, let them beware. The courts are for that purpose."

Although Scott did not amplify on that statement, sources said he indicated to a closed meeting of Republican leaders that he would consider libel action should he continue to be accused of wrongdoing.

The Watergate special prosecutor's office is investigating the allegations that Scott received $10,000 a year in cash from Gulf, along with other Gulf money matters.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, who came to Pittsburgh for the dinner honoring Pennsylvania Republican leader George Bloom, said he was not concerned about the reports and charges that Scott had failed to respond to them.

"I haven't seen anything of any substance that he did not comment on forthrightly, simply and flatly," the vice president said.

But there are some who say Scott, who tagged himself "The Affable Tiger," was more a cat who ran out of his political nine lives.

Scott's biggest undoing was his hawkish support of the Vietnam war and his staunch defense of both President Richard M. Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who both quit in disgrace, forcing Scott to make a 180-degree turn and cry apologetically that he had been used and lied to.

But despite his lame duck status, Scott isn't tossing in the political towel completely.

"I will campaign in 1976 as hard as I know how to elect President Ford and our Republican candidates at all levels," Scott said.

His friends say he hopes to be a strong voice at the Republican national convention next summer in Kansas City, possibly as chairman of the Platform Committee, which would create the policy for the party's presidential candidate.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., the assistant minority leader, and Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., are considered likely candidates to succeed Scott in the leadership post.

Slaying Of Coed Remains Mystery

CINCINNATI (AP) — Authorities say Susan Gorman, a 19-year-old prelaw student with political ambitions, was strangled a day or so after her parents reported her kidnaping Thanksgiving Day.

Hamilton County Coroner Dr. Frank Cleveland said the hazey-eyed, curly-haired coed was strangled with a ligature. Kentucky State Police Lt. Ben Harney said there was also a cut above her left eye.

Twenty FBI agents joined the search for the killer Thursday in cooperation with Cincinnati and Kentucky authorities.

"From all indications," said Cincinnati Homicide Lt. Dan Cash, "she was killed elsewhere and dumped where she was found."

Two teen-age boys found the body in a pile of leaves Wednesday off Kentucky 609 near Butler, Ky.

Capt. Joseph Staff, chief of detectives in Cincinnati, said officers have been unable to trace the victims whereabouts after she disappeared Thanksgiving Eve. She was last seen when she left her job at a cheese store six blocks from her home.

"She never met a person she didn't like," said Mrs. Mary Ellen Gorman, her mother. Mrs. Gorman, a nurse at a veterans hospital, found the whole thing incomprehensible.

"She was most generous, outgoing, happy, thoughtful person. She was always smiling. She accepted everyone for what they were and helped anyone who ever wanted anything from her."

The family have three scrapbooks of their active daughter. Miss Gorman, active in the Republican party since she was 7 years old campaigning for a neighbor, headed the Young Republican Club while in high school, wanted to be a lawyer "and even talked about being the first woman President," her father, Frank Gorman, recalled. He plays piano with the Frank Gorman Trio in local night-clubs.

Miss Gorman went to work at the store to earn money for Christmas. There were six children in the family. Her paycheck, uncashed, was found in her clothing by police.

Frank Gorman, 49, told police he had received a telephone call Thanksgiving evening from a man who said he had Susan and two other coeds.

Set Biggest Act In Show Business

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Benny and Billy McQuire figure they are a cinch to become the biggest names in showbiz. Between them they weigh 1,460 pounds.

The 28-year-olds, listed by the Guinness Book of World Records as the world's largest twins, say they are assured of national television appearances and are planning to return to the night club circuit they left about nine years ago.

"Right now we're working on getting a pair of tuxedos to wear in our act," says Billy, at 720 the lighter of the two by 20 pounds. "It's no easy task. An average pair of everyday pants cost us about $125 to $150, and that's with a discount on material."

August "Garry" Hermann, 1859-1931, was the father of the Baseball Commission founded in 1903 and he lived in Cincinnati. When the major leagues decided to have a czar to rule the game, in 1920, they chose Kenesaw Mountain Landis, a Chicago judge born in 1866 in Millville, Butler County.

Lebanon Industries Pay For Rails

LEBANON, Ohio (AP)—Eight Lebanon, Ohio industries have signed an agreement to pay up to $30,000 a year to subsidize a 4.9 mile section of the Penn Central Railroad scheduled for abandonment.

James Obrig, executive vice president of the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce, said the agreement was needed for the state to apply for a subsidy from the new Conrail System which goes into operation Feb. 7.

He said the local industries could back out later if the costs, estimated at about $63 per railroad car, become too high. He said the estimated cost of upgrading the line is about $176,000. Sixty-six per cent of this will be sought in federal subsidies, Obrig said.

"I've been told by state officials that Lebanon is the only community in the State of Ohio getting up on its hind legs and protesting the abandonment of a rail line," Obrig said.

"There is no question that if we are going to maintain an industrial community here, we have to do this," said Richard Morrison, of Valley Kitchens, Inc., one of the seven who signed.

Other firms were Dave Steel, Lebanon Distribution Warehouses, Brattain Lumber, AgriUrban, P.K. Lebanon Lumber, Artyle Industries and Western Peat.

"We have no choice but to sign up," said William Sniter of AgriUrban. "We can always back out of negotiations later if the price is too high."

Obrig said Lebanon took action after Ohio's request to keep the rail line open was not approved by federal officials. Conrail is part of the U.S. Railway Association which recommended rail line consolidations and abandonments for seven bankrupt railroads in the Northeast and Midwest.

House Democrats Launch Campaign

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio House Democrats launched their 1976 re-election campaign Thursday night with a $100-a-plate fundraising dinner which party officials said netted about $100,000.

The scheduled speaker, U.S. Sen. Wendell H. Ford, D-Ky., was unable to attend because of commitments in Washington. But about 1,100 party loyalists, state officials and lobbyists were on hand for the "Salute to the Democratic Members of the Ohio House of Representatives."

Democrats are out to retain their 59-40 edge in the House and if possible pick up at least one additional seat which would give them the three-fifths majority required to override a veto by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Heacock, a 6-foot-2, 180-pounder, picked off seven passes to lead the conference in interceptions.

Baldwin-Wallace College placed 11 players on all-conference squads, including end Sam Crumpton, who receives the Mike Gregory Award for offensive linemen.

Other individuals cited included Denison's Denny Thome, picked for the Critchfield Award for best defensive lineman, and quarterback Gary Frost of Mount Union, the Gregory award for outstanding offensive back.

Wittenberg placed eight on the honors teams, and Mount Union had seven.

All-Ohio Shrine Bowl Game Readied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Professional scouts always flock to the All-Ohio Shrine Bowl, but more than usual are expected to show up Saturday for the football game matching the state's top college seniors this season.

The reason is one player: Gene Swick of Toledo, the college's all-time career yardage leader. The Rockets' quarterback likely will be a first round pro draft choice.

Swick realizes he's living in a glass bowl as far as his performances in postseason allstar games are concerned.

"I guess I have a good chance to go first. It'll mean quite a bit financially," said the 6-foot-1, 188-pound minister's son, married and the father of a 16-month-old daughter.

"To some degree, I'm sure it will depend on how well I do in bowl games. I have absolutely no preference as to what team I want to go with, said the man who accounted for 8,074 yards with the Rockets.

One thing the scouts will like about Swick. He's durable. He never missed starting a game since his sophomore season.

Swick is realistic about becoming an instant pro success.

"I'm not too fast, about 4.9 in the 40. I'll need experience. I know I can throw and I think I have the intelligence to do the job," said the ace for the West squad.

The East, equipped with a splendid quarterback of its own, Kent State's Greg Kokal, is shooting for its fourth straight victory in the series in Ohio Stadium. Kickoff is 12:30 p.m. EST. Jerry Schweickert of John Carroll heads the East coaching staff of Bill Hess of Ohio University, James McKinley of Central State and Lee Tressel of Baldwin-Wallace.

OSU Faces Penn State Sunday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Fred Taylor, Ohio State's basketball coach, promises things will improve and his captain, Craig Taylor, concurs when the Buckeyes play a rare Sunday afternoon game at Penn State.

"I'm very optimistic about this team. I'll be disappointed if we don't get much better," said the Buckeyes' coach after a 70-67 opening loss at Butler.

Ohio State's center Taylor, no relation to the mentor, added, "You'll see a lot of improvement between our first game and the next one or there'll be a lot of dead bodies."

Craig Taylor and Larry Bolden each scored 20 points against the Bulldogs and are expected to form the core of the Buckeyes this winter.

Elsewhere Saturday, most of the state's major powers are active headed by Bowling Green's visit to St. Joseph's (Pa.) and Ohio University's trip to Northwestern.

Kent State visits Akron in their annual neighborhood scrap, Dayton entertains Biscayne, Cincinnati awaits South Florida and Xavier is home for Thomas More.

Scattered conference activity is scheduled with Bluffton at Findlay and Taylor at Defiance in the Hoosier-Buckeye and Malone at Tiffin and Urbana at Mount Vernon Nazarene in the Mid-Ohio.

In other games Saturday, Marian (Ind.) is at Wright State, Kenyon at Ashland, Otterbein at Ohio Dominican, Wabash at Denison, West Virginia State at Ohio Northern, Heidelberg at Wilmington, Muskingum at Baldwin-Wallace, Hiram at Mount Union, Marietta at Bethany, Point Park at Wittenberg, Steubenville at Walsh, Dyke at Rio Grande and Wilberforce at Cedarville.

Capital, Central State, John Carroll, Case Western Reserve and Ohio Wesleyan are all involved in preholiday tournament play.

Golf pro Dick Crawford won back-to-back U.S. Amateur golf titles in 1959 and 1960.

Surprise Witness Backs Defendant

CINCINNATI (AP)—Cleophus Collins' contention that he killed a policeman in self defense was backed up by a surprise witness who was allowed to testify after the trial was ended.

Bernard F. Cornelius, 32, a therapist at Children's Hospital, said he did not come forward before because he feared police harassment.

Hamilton County Common Pleas Court Judge William McClain ordered the trial reopened Thursday after both sides had rested. McClain took the action after questioning Cornelius in chambers.

Cornelius said he witnessed the shooting incident from his car Aug. 26 when Police Specialist William Loftin was killed and his partner, Claude Dell was wounded. Collins, 52, was also wounded.

Cornelius said he saw Loftin fire first, wounding Collins who was standing in an alley next to the Clock Bar in the Avondale section.

Cornelius said Collins then "reacted" by pulling out a revolver and firing at the plain clothes vice squad officer. There was then "an intermingling of shots."

The prosecution's case was based on the contention that Collins had fired a shot in the air after coming out of the bar. Loftin was shot as he approached the defendant demanding the gun. The officers were investigating drug sales in the area, witnesses said.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. said his office was investigating Cornelius and the fact that the information was not brought to light earlier.

Collins had testified in his own defense that he did not know the men were police officers. Collins said he thought that since the men were dressed in modish clothes they were

Glenn Gives Rail Plan Plaudits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn says the Senate's acceptance Thursday of his amendment to the Rail Services Act was the first step toward possible preservation of key Ohio rail facilities.

The Ohio Democrat's amendment was adopted by a voice vote before the Senate passed the act, which would authorize financing of the projected revamping of several bankrupt Eastern and Midwestern railroads in 1976.

Prior to Glenn's amendment, the act did not include provisions for continued operation of rail facilities, other than actual tracks, on systems not included in the full Conrail plan.

That could have doomed key Ohio facilities such as the vast Erie Marion Yards and Marion Shops and part of Toledo Lakefront Dock.

"My amendment assures that rail facilities, such as yards, shops and docks, will also be eligible for transition assistance, at least for one year," Glenn said.

He said the year is necessary to determine whether such facilities are duplicative.

"To cut them off now, with the loss of many thousands of jobs and an abrupt economic jolt to affected communities, would be dangerous and shortsighted, particularly in light of the national economic situation," Glenn said.

However, the senator cautioned that adoption of the amendment does not guarantee a reprieve for the facilities.

"There remains a lot of legislative ground to cover before we are assured that the facilities stay open," he said. "But we have taken the first important step."

Farmers Rip Price Losses Due To Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recent grain sale embargoes to the Soviet Union and Poland and new trade pacts which grew out of those curbs continue to stir up many farmers and their spokesmen, including some who want the series of events double-checked for possible missteps by the Ford administration.

Further sales to Russia were halted after Russia bought substantial amounts of U.S. wheat and corn in July but resumed after Oct. 20 when a new five-year agreement for regular sales to the Soviet Union was announced. Sales to Poland were halted briefly in the midst of the Russian embargo.

One result has been that many farmers have felt that the sales lids caused grain prices to decline and also lost them valuable exports as Russia turned to other foreign suppliers.

The National Association of Wheat Growers has hired a law firm here to make a special study of the embargoes to determine if the administration had the legal authority to impose them.

Don Woodward, association president, said that "wheat producers feel they have been victimized" by the government's export intervention. He said the study will be ready for the association's annual convention Jan. 18-22 in Billings, Mont.

"Farmers feel they will continue to be shackled by government controls unless they unite to protect their rights as producers," Woodward said.

In the aftermath of the sales embargoes, the agreement with Russia calls for sales of six million to eight million metric tons of wheat and corn annually, with deliveries to begin next Oct. 1. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and can include 36.7 bushels of wheat or about 39.4 bushels of corn.

Attorney General Adopts Policy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William Brown said Thursday he has instituted a policy of representing the people of Ohio before boards, agencies or commissions making decisions which affect consumer interests.

Brown said his office currently is representing private utility consumers before the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio at fuel adjustment ratemaking hearings.

The attorney general said he has adopted the new policy because he feels the interests of utility consumers have not always been fully represented at rate hearings.

But he said the representation will not be restricted to utility hearings. "Within the limits of our resources, we intend to appear before any state or federal agency which should have input from the people of Ohio before making a decision," Brown said.

Arthur Godfrey Dispute Settled

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Radio-television personality Arthur Godfrey has settled a money dispute with the Royal Lipizzan Stallion Show, Inc., allowing a horse show to go on today at the Dayton Convention Center.

Godfrey had filed suit in Montgomery County Common Pleas Court to recover $9,846 he claimed the troupe owed him from performances he made with it in Florida last January.

Supervisor Commends Students

ROGER WOLFE

By SANDY ANGLES

"The Circleville school system is very fortunate to have such a very impressive student body and such a strong staff," was Roger Wolfe's impression of the Circleville schools.

Wolfe is the new secondary supervisor for the junior high and high school. He said his primary responsibilities are in the area of curriculum and instruction.

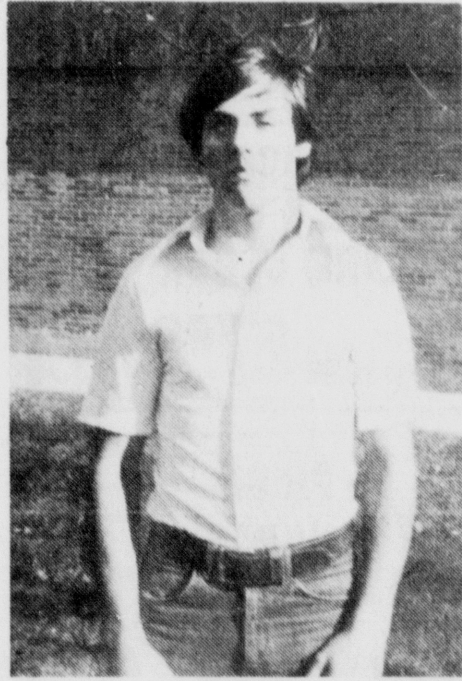

He divides his time between the high school and the junior high.

Wolfe said he has not come across any major problems, but that the only real problem is getting to know everybody. Wolfe said the teachers have rewritten the curriculum guides. He and the administration are revising the curriculum and attempting to improve methods of instruction. He said he hopes to suggest new and challenging classes and to aid classes that are now having problems.

A Circleville native and a graduate of Circleville Schools, Wolfe was formerly principal of Logan Elm's McDowell Exchange School.

The new administrator resides at 688 Fairlawn Drive with his wife, Pam, and their three daughters, Marcy, Michelle, and Melinda.

Girls Basketball Teams Announced

By LESLIE RIED

Miss Joy O'Brien, and her new assistant coach, Miss Karen Rafeld announced the varsity and reserve basketball teams Tuesday.

Varsity members are Jane Cole, Sue Crist, Linda Holveck, Darla Hughes, Lisa Leahy, Natalie Martin, Nancy Radcliff, Sue Radcliff, Kelly Steele, and Sue Stevenson.

Reserve members are Melissa Allison, Wanda Boyd, Kathy Fanale, Denise Fath, Sue Frericks, Beth Harmount, Tammy Merrill, Vickie Morrison, Michelle Nolan, Sue Uland, Mary Wyatt.

The girls have been practicing for two hours a night, five days a week. They are in a conditioning program now doing many drills and working on jumping and rebounding.

Last year proved to be a successful first year for Coach O'Brien. The varsity record was 7-7, and the reserves went undefeated with an 11-0 season.

This year is the first that the girls have a chance to be in the state tournaments, which will be played in early March. The tournaments will work much like the AA Tournaments for the boys.

Miss O'Brien said she anticipates taking the first SCOL Championship title this year. She feels that this year's team will be much stronger than last year's. They have added man-to-man defense and a variety of presses to their game.

An SCOL preview will not be planned this year, but there is a possibility of one next year.

"We anticipate larger crowds with the time change," commented Coach O'Brien, referring to the fact that games will start at 6:30 p.m. There is a

Guidance Guidelines

Sophomores received results from the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey this week. These results are based on 24 vocational areas which in turn provides students with information about how to investigate occupations related to these areas. An individual profile and interpretation notebook were provided to each sophomore in group sessions conducted by CHS counselors.

These interest survey results are intended to provide students with additional information about themselves which will assist them in making decisions about high school programs and subjects, post-high school educational plans, and tentative career choices.

Sophomores will have to make decisions about whether to apply for admission to the Pickaway-Ross Vocational Center during the period from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15, 1976. Additional information about how the Ohio Vocational Interest Survey results and the General Aptitude Test Battery Results relate to Vocational Center programs was also supplied to sophomores who indicated some interest in them.

Visits from school representatives scheduled for next week are Ohio Dominican College on Monday, and Wilmington College on Wednesday. As usual, parents are welcome to meet with these representatives.

possibility that the games will be broadcast live over WNRE radio.

Miss O'Brien, in her second year at CHS, is a 1974 graduate from OSU. She had previously graduated from Columbus Northland High School.

The girls have new uniforms this year and will also be wearing the old varsity warm ups.

The girls play 11 scheduled games. The season opener is against Miami Trace, another SCOL contender. It will be played in the Panther's gymnasium Jan. 5.

The first home game is January 12 with Hillsboro.

Cyclamates Ruling Said Political

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Dr. Michael Sveda, who discovered cyclamates in 1937, contended here Thursday night the federal government took the artificial sweeteners off the market for political rather than scientific reasons.

Sveda, speaking at the University of Toledo, said there are indications the ban ordered by the Food and Drug Administration in 1969 resulted from political pressure exerted by the sugar industry.

By 1969, he said, some 15 million pounds of cyclamates were being consumed annually in this country and sales totaled $1 billion a year.

He said the sugar industry, concerned over the inroads cyclamates were making on the market for sugar, may have originated scientific research specifically designed to produce an adverse report on cyclamates.

Sveda said officials of the Sugar Association even have boasted about the association being responsible for the ban.

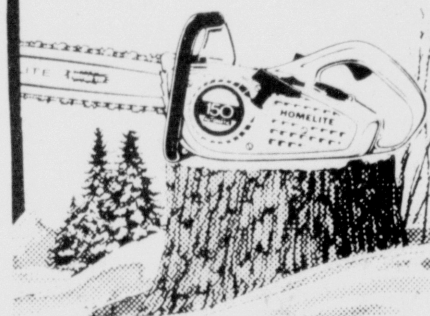

He said many scientists have said that cyclamates appear to be safe and the ban was unjustified, but hesitate to challenge such decisions for fear of losing grants or being the objects of other retributions.

FOR SATURDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Some admonitions now: Be forbearing with trying and irritating situations. And DO wait until the time is ripe before acting on a decision, no matter how well considered.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Fine deeds of the past could now bear fruit beyond your expectations. Also, a good period for tackling jobs that need patience and a steady hand.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): You have instinctive know-how in many areas, but may tend to get off the track now, unwisely go off on tangents. Concentrate on essentials; evaluate situations carefully.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): If planning changes, make certain first that they are for the better; also that they meet with the approval of others involved. A time for making ALL moves thoughtfully.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Do not neglect responsibilities in pursuit of pleasure — or through sheer boredom. Also, be tactful in making requests, not demanding.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Use good judgment in all situations: Restrain vigor when it seems politic, be aggressive when such tactics are required.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): You are usually more than competent in handling difficulties "on your own," but this is a day when you may need a little advice. If so, seek it from competent sources only.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Stellar influences now encourage your best endeavors and promote happiness in your personal life. Do not fear the outcome of anything you undertake. This can be YOUR day.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): Gear yourself to a pace adequate for THIS DAY'S program and keep it there, neither slacking nor hurrying. Romance and friendship favored in the p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Good planetary influences. You can manage in better-than-ordinary fashion, yet must take precautions not to underestimate or overevaluate new propositions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Generous aspects now stimulate your interests and proclivities, and your personality should make itself felt where it counts. Enjoy the day!

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some situations may be getting out of hand. This is the time to use your wits and clear up matters insofar as YOU are personally concerned.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a fine intellect, lofty ambitions and unusual versatility. Unlike many other Sagittarians, you may choose one of the arts as a career in preference to business, but, if you decide to "go commercial," you'd do best in a line which can utilize your creative gifts and your fine eye for line and color — head of a designing studio, for instance, or promoting fashion. Running an art gallery would also be fun for you. However, your best bets are art, literature or the theater. If you do yearn for a profession, make it the law — the avenue extraordinary to statesmanship, diplomacy and the judiciary. Birthdate of: J. L. Yesterday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Views On Television

NEW YORK (AP) — This Sunday, CBS resumes its award-winning "60 Minutes" newsmagazine program, but in the "family hour" slot the low-rated "Three for the Road" series held before it was canceled.

For the last three years, "60 Minutes" has appeared on Sunday an hour earlier, at 6 p.m. EST, except during the summers, when it had different starting times, and during the pro football season, when it has left the air because football would overlap into its time period.

It now faces two prime evening time shows, NBC's veteran Walt Disney series and ABC's new "Swiss Family Robinson."

Excluding the past three summers, when it appeared each week in prime time, this will be the first season "60 Minutes" has had a weekly broadcast in prime time since it began in September 1968.

If it does well in its new time period, it'll stay there on a year-round basis, says Lee Currin, CBS' programming chief.

Why is it now starting at 7 p.m. EST? Why didn't CBS start it again in its old 6 p.m. EST time slot and follow it with a new family entertainment series?

There are a couple of reasons for the change, Currin says.

One is that the Federal Communications Commission this season let the networks start their Sunday prime time programs a half hour earlier — at 7 p.m. EST — than in past years.

But they must fill their first hour of prime time on Sundays with news or public affairs programs or shows "of special appeal to children under 12," says Currin.

Letting the networks start their prime-time programs a half-hour earlier on Sundays could reduce by 30 minutes the amount of local program for network affiliates.

But the affiliates aren't obligated to broadcast network shows, and in the case of "Three for the Road" CBS says only about 80 per cent of its affiliates ran the program when CBS aired it.

The others filled the time with their own programming during the football season at the end of CBS football telecasts on Sundays.

At the end of the regular pro football season, the crunch on local station time would have worsened early Sunday night had CBS decided to air "60 Minutes" at 6 p.m. EST and follow that at 7 p.m. with a family entertainment program.

When this season began, Currin said, the stations felt that "if we had kept '60 Minutes' at 6 to 7 p.m., they wouldn't had any local time (after the football season) and they wouldn't clear 'Three for the Road' for that reason."

The solution, he said, seemed to be to put "60 Minutes" on in the first hour of Sunday prime time after the football season because more CBS affiliates will clear time for it, it's a good adult alternative to the other networks' family entertainment programs and because it's done "surprisingly well" in its old Sunday time slot.

If it doesn't do well in its new time period, he said, CBS may move it back to its old time on Sundays "or perhaps we'll reopen the question of maybe moving it back to 5:30 p.m. (EST) on Sundays."

MAC Cage Action Set On Weekend

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Western Michigan, the Mid-American Conference basketball favorite, already has exhibited two pluses it lacked in the past to become a championship contender.

The Broncos have lacked depth and success on the road. Judging from their performances in a 2-0 start this winter, Western Michigan has overcome both problems.

"It's evident that we'll get more help from more people this year," said Coach Eldon Miller, preparing his veteran Broncos for a road trip to Wisconsin-Green Bay Saturday.

Two Big Ten basketball teams were on the boards Thursday night and they notched a win and a loss.

The University of Illinois slipped past Missouri-Rolla 67-65 at Urbana while Purdue felled better Rutgers 81-73 at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Rutgers' Phil Sellers was high scorer with 31 points for the Scarlet Knights.

The Boilermakers jumped to a 21-12 lead with seven minutes gone in the first half. But Sellers and Mike Dabney scored 14 of the next 17 points as Rutgers tied it up 29-29 with 7 1/2 minutes to go in the half.

Purdue took a 44-43 half-time lead with Bruce Parkinson scoring 13 points and the Boilermakers hitting 64 per cent of their shots compared with only 50 per cent for Rutgers.

Purdue tied the game three times in the second half, but Rutgers gained the lead with 10 minutes to go and held on.

Rutgers now is 2-0, while Purdue fell to 1-1.

Illinois' Rich Adams with 20 points and Nate Williams with 19 led the Fighting Illini to victory over Missouri-Rolla. Illinois was hampered by poor second-half shooting after leading 37-35 at the halfway mark.

Illinois is now 3-0 for the season, while Missouri-Rolla is 2-1.

No Big Ten teams play tonight. Saturday's action includes Ohio University at Northwestern, Purdue at West Virginia, Loyola at Wisconsin, Michigan State at Eastern Michigan, Michigan at Tennessee, Northeast Louisiana at Iowa, New Mexico at Illinois and North Dakota at Minnesota.

But Reay, whose team had tied the Flyers in their two previous meetings this season, continued to voice his low opinion of the Philadelphia winger.

"It's the first time I've seen him earn his pay," Reay said after the game. "But I'm still not worried about him."

Reay has been saying for several seasons that Schultz lacks skill and fights too much. And to add to the insult, the coach refers to Schultz as "Schwartz."

The victory shattered a 15-game unbeaten string for Chicago, and extended Philadelphia's winning streak to seven.

The state of Iowa has soil that is considered the finest in America and the state accounts for one-tenth of the nation's food supply.

Egg-Cholesterol Hassle Heats Up

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Will eating eggs increase your chance of a heart attack?

Should you switch to some product such as Egg Beater or Second Nature? Or is the whole eggs-increase-cholesterol argument wrong?

New research at the University of California at Los Angeles seems to say eggs won't hurt you if you're healthy and don't have a cholesterol problem — which most people don't.

"If the good Lord hadn't intended for us to eat good eggs, unadulterated, He'd have changed them," says Carlin Hooper, one of San Diego County's biggest egg producers.

"The egg yolk is the single highest source of cholesterol in the diet," said Ben Patrusky, chief of science information for the American Heart Association. That group recommends people eat no more than three eggs a week.

"Nonsense. There is absolutely no basis for saying that," said Florence Coats, a spokesman for the National Commission on Egg Nutrition, a producer group.

The commission is awaiting decisions by two federal judges, in Washington and Chicago, on what it can say in ads about eggs and cholesterol, which is a fat-soluble substance in cells and body fluids. People who have heart attacks often have too much of it.

The Federal Trade Commission, at the urging of the heart association, brought suit to stop the producer from saying in ads that "There is no scientific evidence that eating eggs contributes to heart attacks."

Since then the egg men changed their ads to substitute "scientific proof" for "scientific evidence."

At a hearing in Washington, both sides marshaled prestigious heart doctors and nutritionists to back them up.

Meantime, most egg producers say they are having one of the worst, if not the worst, year in history. They lost money for months but are back to breaking even at about 43 cents a dozen.

"It's the worst year I can ever remember," said W. R. Cramer, who has nearly 400,000 chickens in Riverside County and has been in the egg business for 25 years. He figures his loss for the year might hit $200,000 or 50 cents a bird.

He blamed rising costs and the cholesterol scare.

"Cholesterol is a problem because certain manufacturers want to play on it," Cramer said. "I mean the corn oil people."

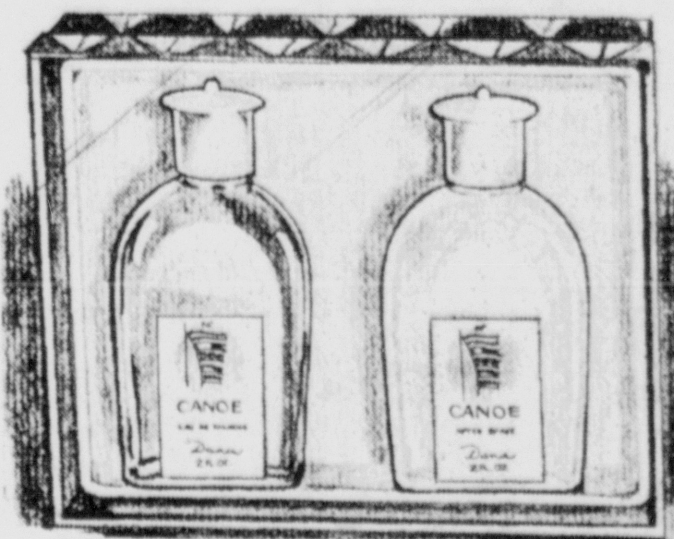

He noted that California's egg producers are spending about $1 million a year for advertising and research to combat the cholesterol scare.

"But that's just a drop in the bucket," complained Cramer. "When Fleischmann's hits the tube for Egg Beater they go $5 million at a time."

"That's very, very high," said a spokesman for Standard Brands, maker of both Fleischmann's margarine and Egg Beater.

But he wouldn't say how much is being spent to promote the product, which is 83 per cent egg whites, with synthetic yolks and corn oil.

Yule Gift Is Smokers Workshop

Christmas presents are really getting to be a serious problem, but for those who want to give a very special lasting one to those they love, The Pickaway County YMCA has one just for you.

However, it is only for those who have a real desire to live longer and healthier, and it can be given by Christmas if decided upon now, and all it needs is a promise.

The promise is: Not to feel so sluggish and tired; not to cough, sputter and wheeze, morning noon and night; not to waste $182.50 or more per year; not to pollute the air; not to have an offensive odor; not to offend others; not to stain up the home and its contents; not to waste so much time; not to be so nervous; and not to die a slow and suicidal death.

All of this can be accomplished for a very special gift for your family if you add one more line to the list which reads, "Not to smoke anymore."

To help you achieve this the "Y" will hold a smokers workshop at the Lutheran Church, tonight, Saturday, Sunday and Monday at 7:30 p.m. Mark it on your calendar along with your shopping date for Christmas, because if it is the best gift you will ever give that will affect your whole family for the best Christmas ever.

Call the Pickaway County YMCA for further details, 474-8621, and be proud of yourself that you can keep the promise to live healthier and breathe fresh air again.

The workshop is co-sponsored by the Heart, Lung, and Cancer Societies of Pickaway County.

School Suit Continues

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland school official in charge of recommending school boundary changes and student reassignments testified Thursday he was generally guided by the neighborhood school concept.

Raymond L. Sepeta, head of the schools' housing division, said in U.S. District Court the guiding principle meant keeping pupils as close to their homes as possible but was devoid of a racial motivation.

In response to examination by attorneys for the NAACP, which has charged the school board here with promoting segregation, Sepeta said that in making his recommendations he did not consider, or even have available, the racial compositions of schools.

Sepeta said he would compile data and make recommendations on boundary changes and student transfers when a school closed or when it became overcrowded.

He said he understood from school board proceedings that the board was trying to adhere to the neighborhood school concept. He said his policy was reinforced by parents who repeatedly requested that students not be reassigned to faraway schools.

MAKE LIFE A LITTLE EASIER...
GIVE Amana
Radarange
MICROWAVE OVEN

Cuts cooking times by 75%.
Cooks a 5-lb. roast in 35 minutes,
bakes a potato in 4 minutes,
cooks hot dogs in 20 seconds.

Amana introduced microwave cooking into the home. The Radarange microwave oven ushered in a whole new era in cooking. And along with it, a lot of competition.

But the competition has nothing like the Amana Radarange microwave oven, and they never will. Because Amana holds exclusive patents on the Radarange oven. So, as much as the others would like to have the features that Amana has, they never will.

Is it any wonder more Radarange microwave ovens are sold than all other makes combined? We don't think so. Come in and see for yourself why the Amana Radarange is the best microwave oven you can buy.

If it doesn't say Amana,
it's not a Radarange.
